

Vita Design Group

Vita Design Group draws on its members' individual expertise and vision to foster an atmosphere rich with new and progressive ideas. Harnessing this collaborative dynamic, they form a common lens focused on generating clear and harmonious design solutions as unique as the clients who commission them. As conscientious stewards of our environment, our objective is to leave a lighter footprint on the land through conservation of resources and materials, with an emphasis on energy efficiency. We believe that architecture is an art form that defines a time and place, providing an opportunity for exploration in design, while reflecting and enriching the way we live and work. VDG's architectural designs span from Fairfield County to New York. The group sees their role as that of a guide, helping the client successfully navigate the unique programmatic and environmental challenges of the project. From the initial consultation, exploration of spatial needs, zoning, and budget, to the materials selection, detailed technical documents, and construction oversight, client satisfaction is paramount. VDG's strength is in the working relationship its team members have with their clients, creating a partnership throughout the process that not only results in the most enjoyable experience, but in the most successful project.
